PENSIONERS

Will Get Checks Direct From Washington Under New Ruling

Aged Veterans and Widows
Will Be Relieved From the Arduous Voucher System

Uncle Sam's pensioners in Mason county have received notices from the Pension Department at Washington advising them that after the first of the year, and in accordance with the new pension law passed by the recent Congress, there would no longer be the necessity to have their vouchers executed by Notaries Public or by Federal or State Court attaches. They are advised that vouchers will be entirely done away with and that when the new law goes into effect their checks will be sent direct to them from the department at Washington.

The news contained in the notices was more than welcome to the pensioners, who have been greatly inconvenienced as the result of the "red tape" which has heretofore surrounded the execution of vouchers. The necessity of appearing in person before a Notary Public or a Court attaché has been the occasion of great hardship to many, if not all, pensioners. Many of them are in feeble health and never leave their homes except when they are compelled to have their vouchers executed.

Major Edward H. McDonald, formerly a wealthy resident and business man of Louisville, died on his farm in West Virginia.

Powerful electric lights have been installed on the exterior of the Tomb prison, New York, since the escape recently of several prisoners.

The Boy and the Bull Pup
G. W. K. in Lexington Herald.

If a man had a $50 bull pup he would look after it carefully and not let it run around at night over the town. But if he has a boy—why, it is different. He is turned loose at a tender age to go to the devil, and yet, people wonder where the great army of loafers, tramps, huns, gamblers and dead beats of all sorts come from each decade. Why, they are germinated from the pure seed gathered from our homes and sown broadcast upon our streets and alleys. At all events, the boy ought to be given an equal showing with the bull pup. Don't you think so?

THINGS TO THINK

About While Preparing to Forward
Your Orders to Strangers
in Far Away
Cities

The man who goes down Saturday night and sees the lighted streets, illuminated stores and throngs of happy people perhaps does not stop to think what pays for it all. It is not paid for by taxation, for if so it would be a burden. It is not paid for by contribution, because that would not be practicable or possible. But it all costs money, and something must pay for it.

It is paid for by the money that is spent at home. The merchants reinvest their profits largely in better stocks, better stores, and better facilities. They pay their share of the cost of paving the streets and laying the sidewalks, in doing many things. So it is plain to be seen that the busy streets that people enjoy on Saturday night is paid for by themselves, it is their money returned to them in the shape of a better town.

When you go into a local store and buy goods from a local merchant, you do not get only the goods, you get the thrifty town, the paved streets, the schools which your children attend, the churches which preserve the moral atmosphere of the community, the things you enjoy and use, which you and the merchant and the manufacturer pay for in common. You can send the money to some other town and get the goods; but you can't get the other things and even if you think the price is smaller, it is larger in the long run, since you get less in return for your money.

It is plainly evident, then, that more of your money you spend at home, the more will you get for your money, the quicker will the crossroads become a village and the community a town with all of the conveniences and none of the inconveniences of the metropolis. The more money you spend at home in patronizing local merchants, in building a house for yourself, in dressing better and living better and feeling better, the more you will be able to have and to enjoy these things.

Why make the fatal error of hurrying your town instead of helping it, of diminishing your own town instead of enlarging it, of damaging your town instead of improving it, since you cannot hurt or hinder, your town without hurting and hindering yourself.

Why teach your children that the city is the place to trade and expect to teach them that it is not the place for them to go? Why constantly encourage them when they marry, to leave the home town and settle in some larger place? Why be the hand to break home ties, to separate yourself from your children?

The more you spend at home the more attractive will your own home be to the coming generation and the more pleasant to you in your old age. If you have friends here is where they are. When you make rovers of your money you make rovers of your children and of yourself. You make your town a poorer place in which to live instead of a better one.

The money we earn let us spend in securing the largest return for it. If you send your children away they may never return. If you send your money away it may never return.

Your prosperity, your happiness, your children are likely to follow your money wherever it goes. Why not spend it where your children will grow up with it, where it will do you the most good now and give you the most comfort in the future?—The Community Builder.

MINISTERS WANTED

Dr. Brinley Deplores Decrease in Pastors and Says Christian Church is Menaced

LOUISVILLE, KY., September 20th.—As the result of a sermon on "Young Men and the Ministry" by the Rev. Dr. W. N. Brinley, Pastor of the Broadway Christian Church, the congregation voted to set aside $150 each year for five years for the education of some young man for the ministry. The candidate is to be found in the congregation of the Church if possible.

Dr. Brinley deplored the fact that there had been what he termed a startling decrease in the number of young men offering themselves for the ministry. He said:

"The important question before us is: Why young men should choose the ministry and why more of them do not?"

"That there has been a startling decrease within the last decade in the number of young men offering themselves for the ministry, in all the leading religious bodies of America, is a matter of common knowledge. Attention is called to an article by Dr. Cyrus Townsend Brady, in which it is shown that during the last ten years there has been a decrease of 23 per cent. in the ministry of the Episcopal Church; that during the same decade the Southern Presbyterian Church increased in membership of 24 per cent., while the per cent. of gain in its ministry was but 12; that the Northern Presbyterian Church increased its membership 32 per cent. and its ministry 25 per cent; that the Baptist Church increased its membership 20 per cent. its ministry 14 per cent; that the Congregational Church increased its membership 36 per cent. its ministry 5 per cent.

"Among the Disciples of Christ conditions are no better. President Crossfield of Transylvania University publishes the statement that while the Disciples experienced a net increase of 125,000 members and 397 churches during the last five years, they sustained a loss of 620 preachers. This church gained 110 congregations organized in 1911, but sustained a loss of 177 preachers in that year. Among the Disciples of Christ there are 10,940 churches, but not more than 5,000 preachers engaged in the active work of the ministry.

"Not more than 200 young men are annually completing their preparation and entering the work of the ministry of this church, not enough to even maintain its present ministry. If these conditions continue, manifestly it will only be a matter of time until the ranks of the gospel ministry are totally depleted."

Missed His Calling
A man who was traveling in the mountains stopped at a cabin and asked for a drink of water. An old woman brought it out to him, and after drinking it he had quite a little conversation with her telling her great stories about some of the wonders he had seen in the outside world.

Finally, when he stopped to take a breath the old woman took the pipe out of her mouth and said: "Stranger, if I knowed as much as you, I'd go some're and start a little grocery."
